

Contents

Foreword

Introduction

Part I: Introduction to the human rights monitoring function

1. Definitions and the human rights monitoring cycle
2. Basic principles of human rights monitoring
3. Human rights monitoring, fact-finding and investigation by the United Nations
4. Norms applicable to United Nations human rights officers and other staff

Part II: International legal framework

5. Applicable international human rights and humanitarian law framework
6. United Nations monitoring standards

Part III: Understanding the context and strategy making

7. Gathering contextual information
8. Analysis
9. Strategic planning for human rights impact

Part IV: Monitoring and documenting human rights violations

10. Gathering and verifying information
11. Interviewing
12. Trauma and self-care
13. Human rights reporting
14. Protection of victims, witnesses and other cooperating persons
15. Integrating gender into human rights monitoring

Part V: Engagement and partnerships for protection and empowerment

16. Engagement and partnerships with civil society
17. Engagement with national authorities and institutions
18. Engagement and partnerships with international actors
19. Interaction with non-State actors

Part VI: Focus areas for human rights monitoring

20. Monitoring economic, social and cultural rights
21. Visiting places of detention
22. Trial observation and monitoring the administration of justice
23. Monitoring human rights in the context of elections
24. Monitoring human rights in the context of demonstrations and public meetings
25. Monitoring human rights in conflict-related or natural emergencies

Part VII: Monitoring the human rights of particular rights holders

26. Monitoring and protecting human rights in the context of migration
27. Monitoring and protecting the human rights of children
28. Monitoring and protecting the human rights of women
29. Monitoring and protecting the human rights of other groups

Part VIII: Intervention for corrective action

30. Using presence and visibility
31. Advocacy and intervention with the national authorities
32. Working with the media
33. Addressing the human rights situation through United Nations mechanisms

Bibliography