

Third session of the Permanent Forum on People of African Descent

In the demand for Global Reparations we cannot just frame it in the context of slavery or colonialism as static events in History, but rather a continuum of exploitation.

Whether it be resource extraction in Africa, Labor Exploitation in the Caribbean or Financial Discrimination and Mass Incarceration in the Americas I propose that any demand for Global Reparations be as big, bold and brash as the levels of inhumanity imposed on us by our oppressors.
